News from the Reading Ambassadors

Issue 2 – February 2017

Welcome to another issue of 'Reading Rockets'; a newsletter created by the Reading Ambassadors with news about their projects and your library.

Korky Paul Visit

The school welcomed the talented illustrator Korky Paul in December. Korky presented the winners of the 'Winnie and Wilbur' art competition with signed copies of the book 'Winnie and Wilbur meet Santa' and created this amazing piece of art for our school.

Have you watched a good book lately?

We discussed movie adaptations and were surprised to learn just how many of the films we enjoy watching started as famous books!

Origami Book Marks

The Reading Ambassadors love to read and treasure books so we spent some of our time creating origami book marks.

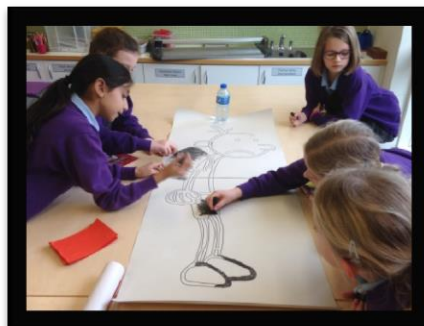

Our favourite one by far was the little Pikachu corner book mark!

If you liked 'Diary of a Wimpy Kid'

We enjoy reading Jeff Kinney's books so decided to create a display for KS2 highlighting similar books and authors that may be of interest.

Try the authors David Walliams or Liz Pichon for example.

Author Display

We updated the KS1 Author Focus Display featuring author and illustrator Nick Sharratt.

Author Focus

Read a book by Philip Pullman (creator of 'His Dark Materials' trilogy).

Or try reading a book by Jacqueline Wilson. She is one of the UK's most borrowed authors at libraries.
